Discovery Program for Global Learners

Program overview

- The Discovery Program is a four-year bachelor’s program that can be completed entirely in English.
- Students with advanced Japanese proficiency (JLPT score N2 or above at the time of enrollment) may be able to pursue their studies in other Faculties at Okayama University if they are considered to have basic knowledge in their fields (see the program website for more detail).
- The program offers an interdisciplinary curriculum in natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities.
- Students develop a personalized curriculum that draws on two or more areas of concentration (“Cluster”).
- Academic areas and modules available in English include:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Transdisciplinary Sciences for Global Sustainability</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The environmental problems we face today increasingly require scientists to cross disciplinary boundaries and think across scales from local to global, and even to cosmic space. Knowledge and skills gained in environmental engineering, physical chemistry, solid state physics, and agricultural science are all necessary for pursuing a sustainable future of our planet.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Atmospheric and Astronomical Physical Chemistry/Solid State Physics</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tackle both the puzzles of the universe and environmental problems on earth by studying principles and methods of molecular spectroscopy shared by astronomical and atmospheric sciences.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Environmental Chemical Engineering</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Study the fundamentals of biomass, bioenergy, and catalysis, which are expected to play major roles in future energy production and in the reduction of negative environmental impacts.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Agricultural Sciences (Basic Japanese proficiency required)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Examine the challenges of global issues such as food security and safety, environmental conservation, declining resources, and clean energy in courses related to agro-chemistry, plant science, animal science, and environmental ecology.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Social Innovation and Entrepreneurship</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The world we live in today faces diverse issues – poverty, unemployment, discrimination, environmental degradation, and many more. Social innovation and entrepreneurship involves finding novel solutions to these issues at the local or global level.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Economics and Management</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Build the foundation in economics and management needed to work for or to start up a business, nonprofit, or social enterprise.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Social Business and Entrepreneurship</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Learn about the process of entrepreneurship as well as the skills and the strategies that innovative businesses use to solve social issues.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Philanthropy and Nonprofit Management</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Explore the social, political, and economic roles of nonprofits in historical and contemporary settings, and the management skills of effective leaders.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Cultural Diversity and Communities

Global connections produce encounters with unfamiliar beliefs, customs and environments, but experiences of differences and “otherness” also exist within each of our own cultures. By studying concepts and methods in anthropology, sociology and political science, students will examine how today’s local challenges are embedded in the global context, and how locality can be the grounds for social change with global significance.

Japan and Beyond
Discover something familiar in the unfamiliar by comparing peoples and communities within and beyond Japan’s borders, as well as by reflecting deeply on one’s own culturally-constructed values.

Migration and Communities
Learn why migrants and refugees leave their homes, and how migration affects their lives, communities of origin, and host societies.

Environment and Health
Explore health and environmental issues from humanities and social science perspectives.

Governance
Examine how and why politics works in the way it does, and how politics influences and is influenced by norms, beliefs, interests, political institutions, economics, society, history, and power relations.

Your questions answered

Who can apply?
The program welcomes applicants of all nationalities from both Japan and abroad. Discovery students include international students from around the globe, returnees to Japan and graduates of high schools in Japan. The program accepts 33 students through international admission, and 27 through domestic admission each year.

Do I need to know Japanese?
Japanese language ability is not required to apply, except for those who wish to take courses in Japanese outside the Discovery Program. Japanese language classes are available to all students at Okayama University, including those who have never studied Japanese. Depending on their objectives, students may select skills-based classes (grammar, speaking and listening, reading and writing), integrated classes, or topics-based classes such as Japanese Culture and Society, and Japanese Through Film. Courses in academic Japanese training are also available to Discovery Program students who take coursework in Japanese.

English is not my first language. Can I take classes to improve my English?
Yes, students who wish to improve their English skills may enroll in English classes offered through the Discovery Program, or through the Center for Liberal Arts and Language Education.

What is an interdisciplinary approach?
An interdisciplinary approach means students can create a personalized curriculum focused on their interests and career goals which may cross traditional department boundaries. Students can combine a liberal arts background (including courses from a range of disciplines) in their first year, with specialized knowledge in one or two areas.

What can I study?
All students work closely with an advisor to develop an individual study course leading to a senior project on a topic of their own choosing (see page 4-5). Students must demonstrate both academic knowledge and strong critical thinking skills by gathering, analyzing, and interpreting information, and presenting their findings to their faculty and peers. A full list of courses offered in the Discovery Program is available on our website.

Your four-year Discovery Program schedule might look like this:

<table>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Languages (e.g., Japanese, English, etc.)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Practicums (e.g., fieldwork, internships, study abroad, laboratory)</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Research seminar</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Senior project</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

What kind of job can I find after graduation?
The program emphasizes practical, hands-on learning skills including fieldwork, internships, study abroad, and laboratory. Students will learn to deal with complex issues from a variety of perspectives, and present creative, concrete solutions to real-life problems. Together with advanced language skills and cross-cultural experiences, Discovery graduates will be prepared for careers in a wide range of fields.
Applying to the Discovery Program

Selection process

Submission of application documents:
All applications and accompanying documents must reach our office by the deadline. Late submissions or incomplete applications will not be considered.

First screening:
The selection committee reviews application material and posts results of the first screening on our website. Successful applicants move on to the final screening.

Final screening (interviews):
Those who pass the first screening have interviews online or on campus. See page 10 for interview guidelines.

Successful applicants announced:
Results of final screening and passing rates posted online. Accepted applicants are notified individually by post, and are provided with detailed information on admission procedures.

Application checklist

Details for each item are provided on page 11-13.

To be submitted online:

- Application form
- Personal statement
- ID photo
- Application fee

To be sent by post:

- Official transcripts
- School profile
- Certificate of graduation or statement certifying expected graduation date
- Letter of academic evaluation
- Letter of recommendation
- Standardized test results (where applicable)
- Official English proficiency test scores (where applicable)
- Proof of Japanese proficiency (where applicable)

Interview guidelines

- The Discovery Program conducts interviews in English in lieu of a written entrance examination.
- Students living in Japan will come to Okayama University for their interviews.
- For students living outside Japan, interviews will be conducted online via Skype or a similar method.
- Interviews will be approximately 20-30 minutes in length.
- Applicants may be asked questions about their interest in their proposed area(s) of study, and coursework taken to date to prepare for college-level study in these area(s).
- Students who wish to pursue their studies in other Faculties at Okayama University will be asked questions in Japanese about their desired fields of study.
- The Admissions staff will conduct pre-interview checks via Skype a few days before the Skype interview to troubleshoot connection problems. Applicants will be informed of the date and time of their pre-interview check and interview time via email.
- Applicants who do not complete the pre-interview check will not be allowed to conduct the interview.
- Applicants are expected to check their email regularly for updates throughout the application process, but particularly prior to the interview process. Failure to respond to emails in a timely manner may result in an applicant being dropped from the selection process.

Request for change of interview time

- The Admissions staff makes every effort to ensure that candidates are assigned reasonable interview times during daytime or early evening hours in their local time zone.
- We recognize that assigned times may sometimes require applicants to reschedule their regular daily activities. However, requests for time changes will be considered only in extreme cases such as illness, unavoidable emergencies, or other conflicts that would cause unreasonable inconvenience to the applicant.
- The Selection Committee will make the final determination on such requests, and may require documentation before giving approval for time changes.
- Applicants who need to request a change in their pre-interview check or interview time should contact the Discovery Office at admission_discovery@adm.okayama-u.ac.jp.
Application documents to submit by post

All application documents are available online at https://discovery.okayama-u.ac.jp/en/prospective_students/admission/

When you are ready to begin the online form, go to https://e-apply.jp/n/okayama-gdp.

Personal statement

The Personal statement is a valuable opportunity for you to convince the selection committee that you would be a great candidate for the Discovery Program. Take the time to think carefully, and revise as needed before submitting your statement. Read through our website and other materials carefully in order to improve your understanding of the Discovery Program and write a successful Personal statement. In particular, read through the curriculum section on our website and explain concretely how our curriculum will help you meet your goals. We will evaluate your statement for content, quality, and clarity of writing.

Complete all sections in English. Respond to all questions. Part A and Part B should be written in an essay format. Although you may consult teachers, counselors, and friends, all final writing must be your own words. If we find plagiarism, including material copied from websites, your application will not be considered any further. If you advance to the interview stage, you may be asked to answer questions or elaborate on your statement.

Part A: Statement of Interest

Write a short essay of 450 to 500 words answering the following questions:

- What are your current interest(s) and goal(s)?
- What life experiences led you to your current interest(s) and goal(s)?
- What is your proposed course of study (e.g., “Track”/“Cluster” of the Discovery Program)?
- How does your proposed course of study relate to your interest(s) and goal(s)?

Part B: Life Lesson

Write a short essay of 450 to 500 words answering the following questions:

- What has been the biggest challenge in your life?
- How have you overcome/ are you trying to overcome it?
- What life lesson have you learnt from these experiences, and how/ what can you contribute to others through this lesson?

Part C: Extracurricular Activities

List up to five extracurricular activities in descending chronological order with the most recent one first. Extracurricular activities may be events, committees, clubs, sports, conventions, communities, internships, jobs, study abroad, CAS (Creativity, Action, Service) activities, and volunteer work you have been involved in. Mention your assigned responsibilities and/or leadership roles. State awards, qualifications, or certificates if you earned.
Important notes for applicants

- Applications must arrive at our office by 17:00 (JST) on the last day of the application period. Incomplete or late applications will not be considered. It is the applicant’s responsibility to ensure that all required documents reach the Discovery Office by the deadline.
- Applications may be rejected at any time, including during or after admission or enrollment, if it is determined that the applicant has made a false statement on any part of the application material.
- If a document with a former name is submitted, please attach a document stating both the former and current names, and the date of the name change.
- Applicants may reapply only if one or more items in the application packet is updated or revised. In this case, all documents must be resubmitted, and new application fees will apply.

University policy on the use of personal information

Personal information contained in application material will be used only for the selection of applicants, university administrative procedures, or as data for the purpose of evaluating and improving the university selection process and educational system. When personal information is used in a publication, it must be presented in such a manner that individuals cannot be identified. In addition to the selection process, personal information may be used for the following purposes:

- Information required by the University Students Affairs System, including the names, birth dates, and gender of successful applicants.
- Assessment results required to determine the academic qualifications of successful applicants who apply for admission fee exemption or postponement, or tuition waivers.
- Information required by the University Management System to process university tuition fees and tuition waivers including the names, birth dates, and gender of successful applicants.
Accepting an offer of admission

A detailed Admissions Guide will be sent to successful applicants along with the announcement of final results. Students who wish to accept their offer of admission must submit the following documents by post, ensuring they arrive by the deadlines listed below.

- Receipt for payment of admission fee (see page 17)
- If the admission fee is revised prior to admission, the new fee will apply.
- Original certificate of English language proficiency test scores (where applicable)
- Photocopy of IB Diploma and official certificate of IB exam results (where applicable)
- Other material as designated or requested by the university

Deadlines for receipt of all documents

</tbody>
</table>

- Please note that accepting an offer of admission requires remitting the admission fee AND submitting all above documents by the deadline.
- If an applicant fails to complete all admission procedures by the deadline, he or she will be considered to have declined the offer of admission.
- In rare cases, admission fee exemption or postponement may be granted. Details are provided in the Admissions Guide sent to successful applicants.
- Applicants who complete the admissions process but wish to decline admission later must first contact the Discovery Office by email, and then submit by post a letter of request to decline admission to the President of Okayama University. The letter must reach our office by March 31, 2020 for April admission, and by September 30, 2020 for October admission. The letter must include the following information:
  - application number
  - name of the program the applicant was accepted
  - date the letter was written
  - reason for declining admission
  - applicant’s signature
An applicant will be permitted to decline admission only after his/her request to decline is approved.

Student visas

All international students must have a student visa to study in Japan. Students must have a valid passport to begin the visa process. The university will contact students approximately two to three months prior to the start of their first term to begin the application process.

Students who have a Japanese passport do not need to apply for a student visa.
Fees

Admission Fee
- There is a one-time fee of ¥282,000 (2020 estimate) to be paid shortly after an offer of acceptance is made.
- Admission fee exemption is offered only in very rare cases.
- The university does not offer scholarships to cover the admission fee.
- Students who have trouble meeting the deadline due to financial difficulty may apply for a postponement. If granted a postponement, the student is still responsible to cover the admission fee after arriving on campus.
- If the admission fee is revised prior to admission, the new fee will apply.

Tuition
- The annual tuition fee of ¥535,800 (2020 estimate) is paid in two installments of ¥267,900 (2020 estimate).
- The first tuition payment is not due until after arrival on campus.
- If the tuition fee is revised prior to admission or while the student is enrolled, the new fee will apply.

For more information about fees, visit the website below:
https://www.okayama-u.ac.jp/eng/international_admissions/Tuition.html

It is important that new students arrive on campus prepared to cover all education fees and living expenses. Okayama University has some funding sources available; however, students are highly encouraged to seek out options through other government or private funding sources.

Scholarships and financial aid

Discovery Scholarships
- Four full-tuition scholarships will be awarded to outstanding applicants accepted through international admissions for April 2020/October 2020. These awards will be announced in conjunction with the announcement of application results.
- Applicants who apply via international admissions during the first application period will have priority. If scholarships are not awarded during the first period, applicants who apply during the second period will be considered.
- The scholarship may be renewed for up to four years provided the recipient maintains excellent academic standing.
- Scholarship recipients must be non-Japanese citizens or Japanese citizens with dual nationality, and may not be receiving full scholarships from other government or private sources for undergraduate studies in Japan.

Okayama University Tuition Waivers
- All accepted applicants are eligible to apply for tuition waivers. Applications are submitted after arriving on campus. Discovery faculty and staff will assist students with the application process during orientation week before classes begin.
- The university may award either full or partial tuition waivers.
- Students who apply for tuition waivers are granted a grace period for their tuition fee payment until they receive notification of the application results.
- Tuition waiver applications must be submitted each semester.

JASSO Scholarships
- JASSO (Japan Student Services Organization) also offers scholarships for international students who are residing outside of Japan at the time of international admission to a Japanese university.
- Okayama University applies for this scholarship on behalf of eligible students. Successful applicants receive a monthly stipend of ¥48,000 for the first twelve months for April admission, and for the first six months for October admission after arrival.
- All applications for eligible international students in 2017 and 2018 were successful.

Campus facilities and services

University Co-op

The Co-op has three locations on Tsushima Campus: Peach Union, Muscat Union, and Pione Union. The Co-op provides the following services and facilities for students:
- Subsidized cafeterias offering a range of options including vegetarian and halal dishes
- Campus bookstore
- Convenience store, travel center, and barber shop
- Housing services and ticket sales

L-Café

The L-Café offers an open, friendly, and supportive environment for students studying Japanese, English, and other languages. The Nihongo (Japanese) café, held twice a week, gives students a chance to practice their language skills and learn about Japanese culture. All students are welcome to drop by during opening hours, or check the calendar for scheduled events.

Center for Career Services

The center provides support for career development and individual consultation.
Clubs and Circles
With a range of sports and culture clubs, including martial arts (e.g., karate, aikido), tennis, photography, tea ceremony, dance, and music, every student will find something of interest.

University Libraries
• Okayama University libraries have the largest collection of books in Okayama.
• Students have access to the Central Library (Tsushima Campus), Shikata Branch Library, and the Institute of Plant Science and Resources Branch Library.
• The recently renovated Central Library includes rooms built with local Japanese cypress wood, creating an aromatic space especially conducive to studying.
• Students may use the Learning Commons for group study and conversation, or separate areas for quiet self-study.
• Accepted students may use the university library prior to enrollment. Detailed information is available on the University Library website at http://www.lib.okayama-u.ac.jp/index_e.html (English) and http://www.lib.okayama-u.ac.jp/index.html (Japanese).
Medical care and insurance

Health Center
The Health Center offers periodic medical exams, health consultations, and other services free of charge. When necessary, the center makes referrals to local hospitals.

National Health Insurance
• International students who have been granted a visa valid for more than 3 months are required to join the National Health Insurance system regardless of their visa status (those on short-term or diplomatic visas are exempt), even if they are already covered by insurance in their own country.
• Applications are accepted at the municipal office. More details will be provided during the on-campus orientation.
• Health insurance premiums for students are about ¥1,800 per month and cover approximately 70% of all medical costs including hospitalization and dental care.

Personal Accident Insurance for Students Pursuing Education and Research (Gakkensai), and Liability Insurance coupled with Gakkensai (Futaibaiseki)
• The university offers Personal Accident Insurance for Students Pursuing Education and Research (Gakkensai) and Liability Insurance coupled with Gakkensai (Futaibaiseki), provided by Japan Educational Exchanges and Services (JEES). This insurance is available to all students for an estimated one-time cost of ¥4,660 (subject to change). It covers accidents and emergencies which may occur while engaged in educational or research activities while enrolled at Okayama University.
• Insurance premiums for Gakkensai and Futaibaiseki are extremely low, and can provide peace of mind to students and parents. In preparation for unforeseen accidents or other emergencies, all students are highly encouraged to enroll. Gakkensai and Futaibaiseki are required for enrollment in many Discovery classes including laboratory, fieldwork, and internships.
Admissions Policy

The Discovery Program for Global Learners is based on collaboration and mutual learning among students of diverse backgrounds, including international students, Japanese returnees, and graduates of high schools in Japan. The program emphasizes practical learning including internships and fieldwork. Students acquire specialized knowledge through courses suited to their future goals without the restraints of faculty or departmental divisions. The university offers courses to help students discover areas they wish to explore, forging their own paths toward the future. While cooperating with others from different cultures and backgrounds, students acquire the global and practical discernment to enable them to act skillfully in problem-solving situations.

Students are encouraged to acquire specialized knowledge and skills through a unique program of courses of their own choosing. At the advanced stage of their learning, all students undertake a senior project. This project gives students the opportunity to further develop the ability to analyze information in a multifaceted and creative manner, and transmit precise information effectively. Students grapple with an individual research theme, which they decide for themselves under the guidance of an advising professor. Essentially, the Discovery Program helps students gain the ability to initiate action for social innovation from the local to the global level, thereby developing young leaders who are capable of contributing to the sustainable development of global society.

Profile of Exemplary Candidates:
• Students who show interest in diverse cultures and societies, and have a desire to play an active role on the global stage.
• Students who are willing to actively study a broad range of fields, including foreign languages, on their own initiative.
• Students who are able to communicate with others well, and are prepared to tackle complex issues by cooperating with their peers.

In order to actively participate in the program, applicants are expected to have:
• Sufficient English ability to take part in problem-solving activities in collaboration with students from multicultural backgrounds.
• The ability to formulate personal opinions and communicate their views clearly to others.
• Basic knowledge and study skills required for successful learning in their selected field.
